

Ask a grown up to help you learn your own address. Practice what you would say if you ever had to call 999. Remember you only call 999 in a serious emergency.

Ask a grown up to help you collect 10 things from around your house, put them carefully around your living room. (you could get a tv remote, some jewellery, a pair of glasses, you decide) You will then have to leave the room, your grown up will take away an object and pretend there has been a burglary. Come back into the room and become a detective. Solve the crime by finding out what is missing and where it has gone.

Dress up like someone who would help us. Ask a grown up if you could borrow their clothes. Borrow an adult's hat and pretend it is a helmet. Borrow a shirt and pretend it is a doctor's coat. Pretend you are the person helping, what would you do?

Draw a picture of the different emergency vehicles. You could make a model using junk materials you have at home, card board boxes and tubes. You could draw an ambulance, a police car or even a fire engine. Don't forget to label your vehicles and make your poster colourful.

Challenge
If some children are waiting to cross the road at a zebra crossing, who would be there to help them cross. Have a think and then draw a picture of who you think this might be.

Create a thank you card for someone who has helped you. It could be anyone. Try to make your card colourful. Make sure you write your thank you message inside.
